

Randolph Sponsored One-Day SQF “Conversion” Workshop for Food Plants

Randolph Associates, Inc. has developed an in-depth one-day workshop that will identify the specific differences between the existing 6th Edition of the SQF 2000 Code and the new 7th Edition (formal issue-January 1, 2012, effective date-July 1, 2012). Included will be templates and user-friendly documents to streamline plant efforts to modify plant SQF manuals to the new 7th Edition format. All SQF-certified plants that have to be recertified after June 30, 2012 will need to have completed the conversion of their written SQF manual, supporting operational and records systems to comply with the new 7th Edition or lose their SQF certification status. Key changes for the 7th Edition include, but are not limited to:

- New “Module” format and dropping old “1000” & “2000” Code format.
- Re-organization of existing material with the “old” Section 4 requirements now found in Module #2 and Module #11.
- Change in point values for non-conformities and scoring audit scoring system.
- Increased number of requirements for those plants with SQF Level 2 certification.
- Consolidation and removal of duplicate material in Sections 4, 5 & 6 of the “old” 6th Edition into corresponding sections in the new 7th Edition.
